

UNCG

Hello, my name is Trina Gabriel and I serve as a student services liason for students currently enrolled in UNCG's online courses. We understand that students have different learning styles and different perspectives so there are audio components, there are visual components, there are games, there are quizzes each designed to assist students in learning in a manner that's best for them. Another exciting thing about online learning at UNCG is you can always go back to material that's in the course. If you're taking a traditional face-to-face class, if you go to class on Tuesday once you've left that class you don't have an opportunity to review that lecture. With online learning you have an opportunity to print off all of those materials as well as to review any audio and video clips, so I think that's been a very rewarding experience for students taking online courses here at UNCG. Added to that is the flexibility of our courses. Students are never required to be online at any particular time, but students can certainly kind of navigate those days and times that work best for them in completing their course work.
