Charles Aycock Project

History and Museum Studies Presentation
Board of Trustees Meeting: December 9, 2016
Imaginative exercise - rethinking how to memorialize Aycock, in unique and creative ways.

Presented to the Historical Society of North Carolina and the general public.

Courtesy of Benjamin Filene
SOURCE BRIEF

- Become more knowledgeable about Aycock in both a historical and contemporary context.
- Aid in determining the direction of the project as we move forward.

Courtesy of Special Collections and University Archives, Digital Collection
• Illustrate what groups of people are represented in the names of buildings on campus.
• Each student researched 4 other campus buildings, and helped create filters for map.
• Highlight ten buildings on campus and conduct in-depth research on the namesakes and commemoration.
• We also created unique ways to memorialize these ten buildings, similar to the poster session.